

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A transmission-drive unit for a seat adjustment or a servo steering has a transmission housing; a driven shaft extending outwardly beyond the transmission housing; a driven wheel non rotatably arranged on the driven shaft; a supporting element which directly at least partially surrounds the driven shaft so that the driven wheel is supported against the supporting element by axial force action from outside.